Preschool News

Dear Families,

We have had a few really great weeks in preschool! We have been spending time getting to know our friend's and teacher's names, the materials in our classroom, the places in the building, and some of the faces we see around the school. We have also been learning about emotions. The children have been giving great suggestions of things that make them feel happy, sad, and scared. We have created a list of strategies that we can use when we experience these emotions; such as looking at a family picture or getting a hug from a teacher when we feel sad. When children are comfortable with the environment around them and the expectations set forth they are more likely to be successful! We have also been splitting into two smaller groups for part of the morning program: Pre-kindergarten children (those with one year before Kindergarten) and Preschool children (those with two or more years until Kindergarten). By splitting the children up we have been able to focus on individualizing our curriculum and creating experiences that are more developmentally appropriate for everyone. As we continue to learn about our environment over the next few weeks we will also begin transitioning into learning about autumn and apples!
